Vermont PBS Bardo Promotional Trailer Awarded First Place By Vermont Association of Broadcasters

Winooski, VT – December 18, 2020 – Vermont PBS’ promotional trailer for Season 2 of Bardo: A Night In The Life was awarded first place in the Vermont Association of Broadcasters (VAB) Production of the Year Awards category for Outstanding TV Station Produced Digital Commercial, Promo or PSA. The awards were announced by Wendy Mays, Executive Director of the VAB, on YouTube, with the winning trailer running in full at minute 6:46 of the video.

The station’s Season 2 Trailer for Bardo was made by producers Mike Dunn and Emily Taylor, talent Ryan Miller, editor Kyle Ambusk, and videographers Brian Stevenson, Kyle Ambusk and David Littlefield.

“We’re proud of our talented team, and really thrilled to see them recognized once again by their peers in the broadcast industry,” said Steve Ferreira, CEO of Vermont PBS. “The Bardo series was fun to shoot and fun to watch, and that energy really comes across in the award-winning promo.”

Season 2 of Bardo: A Night In The Life first aired on Vermont PBS in Spring of 2019 and showcased band interviews with show host Ryan Miller of Guster and live concert footage from Higher Ground in South Burlington. The second season featured episodes with The Milk Carton Kids, Rubblebucket, San Holo, and tune-yards. Episodes from Seasons 1 and 2 of Bardo: A Night In The Life are available to watch on vermontpbs.org/bardo.
